FIVE YEARS LATER, THE WILMINGTON AIR PARK IS HAVING A SIGNIFICANT IMPACT ON THE COMMUNITY

For those of us who have been at the Wilmington Air Park since the donation in 2010, it is hard to believe we have spent more than half a decade turning this property into what it is today. And we know this has been a shared success—which is why we want to thank each of you for working alongside us these 5 years!

“This is obviously a significant milestone for us,” said Kevin Carver, Executive Director of the Clinton County Port Authority. “We have also been proud to contribute to Wilmington’s overall economic prosperity.”

Five years from the day we began welcoming companies to our property, the Wilmington Air Park now has 14 tenants, with businesses of varying size, representing a variety of industries. And today, more than 1100 estimated employees report to the Wilmington Air Park for work each week—with firm commitments for an additional 200 jobs to be added in 2015.

RECOGNITION CONTINUES FOR THE WILMINGTON AIR PARK

This last year has been particularly meaningful, as the Air Park has been recognized by several established organizations:

- Most recently, the Ohio Aviation Association selected the Wilmington Air Park as the 2015 Ohio Airport of the Year. The announcement was made at their annual conference.

- The Wilmington Air Park is currently in the third and final stage of DP&L’s Site Certification process. Sites that are deemed “certified” will have met or exceeded a series of stringent qualifications, proving they are shovel-ready for businesses.
- Also, Site Selection Magazine recently included Wilmington—ranked #10—in their Top Micropolitans in the U.S. list, cities of 10,000-50,000.

NEW BUSINESS PROFILE

BISIG AUTOMOTIVE AWARDED LOAN TO OPEN NEW BUSINESS

While being recognized for our work is always appreciated, the best reflection of our successes at the Wilmington Air Park will always be our impact on economic development. Recently, Bisig Automotive was able to open their operations in Wilmington. The new business was funded in part by a Revolving Loan Fund offered by the State of Ohio and administered by CCPA. The loan was awarded based on their potential for positive economic impact. Please join us in congratulating Bisig Automotive on their new building and ribbon cutting!
